A Million Miles Over Kansas City Charles Gray

A Million Miles Over Kansas City tells the story of John Wagner's life above us and all his adventures throughout the years. The author is one of Kansas City's best-known news directors, Charles Gray, and while he was working with Wagner got inside the crazy escapades of life in the sky. Wagner is well known as one of the first radio personalities in Kansas City who reported live breaking news and covered local traffic from above Kansas City. Wagner is known in the hearts of many as the original "Sky Spy."

According to Gray, Wagner changed the face of news reporting, as we know it today, by giving his detailed reports of major events in the Kansas City area. From covering the fire of the historic Coates House Hotel in 1978 to riots and strikes, Wagner was there for his dedicated listeners all over Kansas City.

Gray's book flows beautifully and keeps the reader on his toes, constantly giving fun and riveting details about Wagner and all the stories he covered throughout the years.
